MIDDLE SCHOOL CLASSROOM CLASSICS

New Books That Complement The Classics — It can be tough to teach the classics to today's students. At a time when the entire society is questioning long-held assumptions about who gets to make the rules, a previous generation's "great works" of literature may be difficult for young readers to tolerate or even comprehend. Young people, understandably, want to read fiction that is relevant to them, featuring people and situations that resonate with their lives—and the cherished lessons of yesteryear may no longer seem to apply.

There is a growing list of "modern classics" for 7-12 readers that can help bridge the gap and spark engagement and insight. Below are titles that can complement older favorite texts.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASSROOM CLASSICS

New Books That Complement The Classics — It can be tough to teach the classics to today's students. At a time when the entire society is questioning long-held assumptions about who gets to make the rules, a previous generation's "great works" of literature may be difficult for young readers to tolerate or even comprehend. Young people, understandably, want to read fiction that is relevant to them, featuring people and situations that resonate with their lives—and the cherished lessons of yesteryear may no longer seem to apply.

There is a growing list of "modern classics" for 7-12 readers that can help bridge the gap and spark engagement and insight. Below are titles that can complement older favorite texts.

MAKE READING MORE ACCESSIBLE

Offer Large Print.

Large print is a simple accessibility solution. The increased font size and spacing means fewer words per page, allowing more frequent page turns that keep readers engaged. Giving kids more options in both content and format can increase their motivation to read.

MAKING MEDIA

ORDER #1108577

6-BOOK SET • $180.00 • GRADES 6-12

Today, more media is available to everyday people than ever before. At the same time, there have never been more ways for people to create and distribute media of their own. Making Media explores both the technical and artistic sides of making books, movies, music, podcasts, video games, and web content. The series covers the tools and techniques that professionals use to create these different forms of media. It also discusses how independent creators can use consumer-level technology to make their own media.
